For customised patient information

Faller Packaging presents its new material catalogue for leaflets

November 2021, Waldkirch. There are many ways to design patient information for a pharmaceutical product. However, the question is, how can a pharmacist select the perfect leaflet for its product? Faller Packaging's hot-off-the-press material catalogue for leaflets has all the answers.

Which grammage fits? Unfolded leaflet, or would it be better pre-folded or small folded? Should the leaflet be closed or have an index? Or perhaps several of these options combined? There are many ways to create the best possible design for patient information in a pharmaceutical product. To help customers find the ideal leaflets for their products, Faller Packaging has now made its new material catalogue for leaflets available.

This tool will help customers compare and select the different materials in advance and configure the ideal package leaflet. The catalogue presents different variants and paper grades in different grammages, whiteness and opacities compactly and clearly. Clear descriptions of several sample package leaflets round off the catalogue.

Faller Packaging has been supplying its customers for many years with package leaflets in individual sizes, formats and materials, all customised for the product in question and the processes and conditions involved in its production. This ensures that patients can access all the information they need reliably and quickly. All the leaflets are produced in GMP- and FDA-compliant manufacturing processes, which adhere to the strictest quality and safety standards.

The printed catalogue can be requested free of charge at www.faller-packaging.com/en/finishing-sample-sheet-1 on the Faller Packaging website.
